Opening
Activity.... You could start this one as a gathering activity and finish during the meeting	Suspect Bio Print off the page at the end of this meeting and give one to each girl. Have them make their own bio including their fingerprints. (you will need an ink pad) This will give you a chance to talk to the girls about how all fingerprints are different and unique.	Could be used as a Being me Activity
Game	Guess what it is? You'll need: A pillow case A few small items (face cloth, Q-tip, eraser, dice, notepad, paintbrush etc.) Instructions Have the girls sit in a circle and go around with the pillowcase to give each girl some time to feel around, but not look inside! Give each girl a chance and let them circle the items they think are in the pillowcase. Once every girl has been given a chance, reveal the items in the pillowcase to see who had the most right!
craft	I spy Bottles You'll need: -Empty water bottle per person -Small objects you brought that match your list and fit inside(shaped confetti pieces work well) -rice - tags you have made up and printed that have a list of the objects that will be in the bottle Have the girls place rice about half ay up their bottles. It is easiest if you tape some paper funnels together to help with this. Then place all the objects they need to place into their bottles and then fill the rest of the bottle up with rice leaving some space at the top so there is room to shake up the contents inside. Place the lids on the bottles...you may choose to glue gun them on so the girls will not be able to open them up and spill out their contents. Then tie the I spy list onto the bottle using ribbon and the girls can shake their bottle up and find all the objects on the list.....you may want to use pictures for your list.	Could be used an exploring and experimenting activity
