

Each team needs to make a team flag to represent their team, and should prepare an introduction for their team.

Team Flag Specifications

Your flag represents your team and it speaks to your team's spirit, as well! It is also used to let us know when you have completed your Quest. Your team should work together to design your flag.

Your flag must include:

- Quest Theme – Movie Madness
- Team Name - which you choose to go with this year's Quest Theme
- Team Number - you will be assigned a team number after registration
- Size – should be no larger than 80 cm X 40 cm
- Materials - should be waterproof or water repellent (parachute cloth, canvas, or vinyl work well) with no add-ons that would deteriorate in inclement weather.
- Stand-Alone - flag must be able to stand on its own for the entire day. Also remember that if your flag falls over, it is disqualified from the judging.

Flags that worked best in past years had doweling or similar “stiffening” on both vertical sides and uprights were also weighted at the ground level to hold them up. Alternatively, the uprights could be held with guy ropes similar to what is done for a tent or flag pole.

At the start of the Quest, flags are planted in the grassy area adjacent to Quest HQ. Flags must be picked up by each team after the team has completed its Quest.

At the Closing Ceremony on Sunday morning, teams return with their flag to the area adjacent to Quest HQ. Awards will be presented for 1st, 2nd, and 3rd place flags.

Team Introduction

When arriving at each project site, teams need to introduce themselves by name, team name and team number. Teams may choose to have a cheer, poem, rant or short song to introduce themselves. Your introduction and how well you listen to directions are 10% of your score.

Please feel free to dress for the theme! Team spirit helps you do better at Quest!
